MOTHER BEGS BABY'S RETURN

Mrs. Rose Carlan, mother of kidnaped Ronnie, made this plea today:

"Please, I beg of you on my bended knees and in my prayers, return Ronnie to me. His daddy has not seen Ronnie and anyone who has a heart or any love for a child knows that I want the child for his father. Please, please, please return the baby before I go out of my mind. Take good care of him. I feed him every four hours. At 5 a. m., he has his nursing bottle filled with warm Grade A milk, and then some strained baby food, especially carrots. At 9 a. m., I give him Pablum. At noon he has a mashed banana. He also has his orange juice with cod liver oil. This can be given in morning or afternoon. G i v e him Penetro and lots of water, because he has a cold."

Brother Gone

One of Greater Boston's biggest kidnaper hunts was on today for 6-months-old Ronald Carlan, Chelsea baby who was abducted from his carriage near his home. Little Ronnie is shown here with his older brother, James, Jr., 3.

'3' Meetings Ended Says President

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (INS)—President Truman threw a verbal bombshell into the international situation today with a flat statement he does not anticipate any further "Big Three" conferences among the United States, Britain and Russia.

The chief executive told a news conference the United Nations Organization is now the medium for solution of world problems.

Mr. Truman, at the same time, took a roundhouses wing at elements in and out of this country which he said are seeking to open a breach between the United States and Russia.

The President declared there is no reasonable danger of war between the United Cstaes and Russia.

He bluntly asserted widespread expressed fears Russia would not co-operate with the rest of the world do not have a real basis.

The President said the so-called fear of Russia doesn't bother him.

I do not agree that there is a basis for such fears, the President asserted.

Mr. Truman said he did not agree with assertions made by some that Russia will not co-operate in the postwar world with the United States and other countries.

He declared he does not expect there will be war with Russia.

The President said he would discuss the whole matter of the Russian situation soon.

He made it plain that, in the ordinary course of events, he does not expect another conference among himself, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee.

Mr. Truman said he was opposed to special conferences—that such conferences are the province of the United Nations.

He said there were too many special conferences after the first World War, and inferentially that these special conferences were in part to blame for events that led to a second world war.

He said the United Nations Organization to maintain world peace should begin active operation within 90 days.

He added he wanted to see the United Nations Organization do its job.

He disclosed negotiations were under way with Russia, Britain and France in an effort to revise that part of the Potsdam declaration which refers to the four-power control and occupation of Germany.

Mr. Truman said he aproved the recommendations made in the Byron Price special report on operations of control over Germany which was made public yesterday.

He said the question of a single veto power which Price charged had permitted France to prevent the unification of Germany as a single economic unit is a point of detailed discussion with the three other powers occupying Germany.

Mr. Truman declined to comment on the resignation of Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley or Hurley's criticism of Administration policy in China.

He said simply he had no opinion to express.

Gen. Marshall, Hurley's successor, will leave for China within three or four days, the President added.

HIALEAH, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—War veterans returning home will be able to buy a building lot from the city for $1.

Only requirements set up by the City Council are that the veterans pay outstanding taxes and build within a year.

Vote Puts Steel Strike Up to Chiefs

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29 (AP)—Officials of the CIO-United Steel Workers held in their hands today authority to call a nation-wide strike to enforce their demand for a $2-a-day pay raise. The power was given by members of their union who voted in a National Labor Relations Board election yesterday, favoring a strike nearly 5 to 1. Unofficial, incomplete returns in 27 states showed the workers voting 342,125 for, 70,639 against a strike.

Officials of the USWA told their local leaders before the voting that a favorable ballot did not necessarily mean there would be a strike.

Workers were cautioned against any premature work stoppage and were informed the authority for a strike rests with the national wage policy committee and the executive board.

Complete returns from Pennsylvania, greatest steel producer in the nation, with an annual ingot capacity of about 30,000,000 tons, showed 161,512 for, 36,817 against.

The vote in Massachusetts was recorded 4344 for, 714 against.

The smallest majority, about 2 to 1, was recorded by 3000 steelworkers in Colorado.

Work Resumed At 7 Maine Mills

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 29—After voting to accept terms of a union-management compromise, 8000 workers in seven Maine textile mills returned to their jobs today, ending a 28-day strike.

New contracts call for maintenance of membership, 65 cents an hour minimum wage, bonus for workers on the midnight shift, company-paid insurance, two weeks' vacation after five years of employment, and other benefits.

By RAY RICHARDS

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—The secret, real findings of the Army board of inquiry on Pearl Harbor—almost the complete reverse of the conclusions the board reported to the public in August—were disclosed to the Hearst newspapers today.

The board in secret acquitted Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, commander of the Hawaiian Army garrison, of any important responsibility, and put the bulk of the blame on the War Dept and the policy-making offices controlling it, of which the White House is top.

This is a glaring contrast to the board's public report, and the original report of President Roosevelt's own Roberts commission, which charged virtually the entire culpability to Gen. Short and R. Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, with only mild and indirect criticism for the War Dept. and the policy-making branches.

The suppressed Army board report by inference also lifts major blame from Adm. Kimmel.

The 52-page secret report, to be introduced soon by Republican minority members of the congressional committee now holding hearings, says the culmination of "complete revelation of the Japanese intent as to war and the Pearl Harbor attack came on Dec. 3, 1941, with information that Japanese diplomatic representatives were destroying their codes and code machines. This was construed by G-2 (Army Intelligence) as meaning immediate war.

In another section the report specifically includes the White House among the recipients of every item of the significant information as soon as it developed. The report continues:

"The disaster could have been eliminated to the extent that Pearl Harbor defenses were available Dec. 7 if alerted in time. This is wholly aside from Short's responsibility in not himself selecting the right alert."

15 PRIESTS MARTYRED

LONDON, Nov. 29 (INS)—A Polish Press Agency Warsaw dispatch said government investigators had discovered that 15 Catholic priests had been killed by the Germans in Bydgoszcz during the occupation.

Reds Charge U. S. Pressure on Iran

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Soviet Tass Agency, quoting newspapers in Tehran and Copenhagen, said today the United States was applying "pressure" on both Iran and Iceland for air bases.

Commenting on the simultaneous appearance of these two dispatches in the Russian press, observers suggested, that they might be used by the Russians when and if the Soviet government answers U. S. Ambassador Harriman's note asking for information about the activities of the Red army in the Iranian province of Azerbaijan.

Stalin to Take 'Good Long Rest'

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 (AP)—Generalissimo Stalin has decided to prolong his vacation and take what was described as a "good long rest" before returning to his duties in the capital, a well informed and highly reliable source said today.

This source said the Soviet leader still was enjoying good health.

Goering Linked With Nazi Plot To Grab Austria

By WES GALLAGHER

NUERNBERG, Nov. 29 (AP)—German army plans for a "surprise war" against Austria and Nazi fifth column plots leading to German invasion of the little country in 1938 were placed today before the international military tribunal trying 20 Nazi leaders on war crimes charges.

Fat and not-too-happy Hermann Goering was described as the man who directed by telephone the blitz invasion of Austria after Austrian Nazis paved the way by deposing Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

The records were found in the ruins of the Berlin Air Ministry building by Associated Press Correspondent Dan De Luce.

Many of the telephone conversations were with Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Austrian Nazi leader and one of Goering's fellow defendants. The prosecution said the records clearly disclosed Nazi plotting to absorb Austria into the Reich.

Asst. U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman produced a directive from Marshal Werner von Blomberg in which he quoted the former secretary of war as saying "there might be special preparations for war against Austria."

The private diary of Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, German army chief of staff, was also produced. It revealed that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, high command chief of staff, one of the defendants, and German naval chiefs had conducted fake military maneuvers to frighten Austria in February, 1938—a month before Hitler moved into the neighboring country without resistance.

Maritime Workers To Stage Stoppage

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (INS)—Union officials estimated today that 90,000 maritime workers on both coasts will walk off their jobs in a 24-hour stoppage Monday to protest delays in returning troops from overseas.

Troop carrier and relief ships will not be affected in the walkout led by the CIO Maritime Union, which has been insisting that shipping which could be used to return servicemen is being used for commercial purposes.

It's a Capital Idea, Senator

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—While other folks propose sites for the United Nations capital, Rep. Grant (R.) of Indiana came up with this suggestion today:

It's time, he told a reporter, to choose a capital for UNRRA, lend-lease, the export-import bank, the Bretton Woods stabilization plan, and Uncle Sam's other loans and philanthropies.

His nomination: Santa Claus, Ind.

"What could be more fitting, especially at this season of the year?" said Grant. "And what better way of showing the people abroad that there really is a Santa Claus?"

Woman in Black Hunted in Kidnap

GRIEF-STRICKEN MRS. ROSE CARLAN AND SON, JAMES, JR., IN THEIR CHELSEA HOME
Mother Near Complete Collapse as Police Hunt Her Kidnaped Infant Son
INP by Edwin Stephan

An elderly, eccentrically acting woman in black, who was seen hurrying across the Everett ave. crossing of the Boston & Maine in Chelsea yesterday with a baby in her arms, was the subject of one of Greater Boston's biggest kidnaper-hunts today as authorities sought the abductor of 6-months-old Ronald Carlan, 152 Arlington st., Chelsea.

Meanwhile the boy's father, MM 3c James Carlan, was flying across the continent on emergency leave from his Navy post in Oakland, Cal., to join his frantic wife, Rose, 23. Hysteria still shook her today, despite opiates and a physician's care.

Ronald is sick. He is suffering from a cold. Deep fear was in the mother's heart that even if he had been taken by some love-starved woman with no child of her own, she might not know how to care for him. She begged of her unknown foe:

"Take good care of him. I feed him every four hours. At 5 a. m. he has his nursing bottle, filled with warm grade A milk, and then some strained baby food, especially carrots. At 9 a. m. I give him Pablum. At noon he has a mashed banana. He also has orange juice with cod liver oil. This can be given in the morning or afternoon. Give him lots of Penetro and water, because he has a cold." (Penetro comes in such forms as an inhaler, chest rub, nose drops and cough syrup.)

Lt. John J. Kirby of the Chelsea police said today that as a suspect the woman in black was "the best thing we have yet."

She was drawn into the case as the result of arousing the curiosity of a gate tender at the Everett ave. railroad crossing. Shortly after the baby was stolen from his carriage across the street from his home yesterday, the gate tender's attention was attracted to a woman nearing the crossing.

He told police she repeatedly looked over her shoulder as she hastened toward the tracks with a baby in her arms. As she passed over the crossing, headed in the direction of Everett, she continued to look back, he noted.

He placed the time at approximately 3:30 p. m. The child was kidnapped some time between 2:45 and 4, when Mrs. Carlan left the house and went across the street to find him gone.

The gate tender's description jibed with that given police yesterday by two neighborhood children, Barbara D'Lott, 7, and her sister, Marilyn, 5. They said the baby had been taken by "an old woman wearing a dark coat and a hat with two flowers like tulips."

The gate tender said the woman who drew his attention was between 50 and 60. The Arlington st. site where Ronald was abducted is not far from the railroad crossing. Arlington st. itself leads to Everett ave.

Further increasing police interest in the woman-in-black suspect was the fact that an El motorman told them he saw such a woman passenger while he was riding in a bus bound from Chelsea to Malden sq. She had a baby in her arms and was obviously too old to be the infant's mother.

The search was focused largely on Everett today. Aroused Chelsea residents and police off duty volunteered to increase the ranks of searchers. Lt. Kirby assigned five detectives to check all stores, taxi stands, newspaper sellers and others along Everett ave. in an effort to follow the route taken by the hurrying woman.

It was arranged with B. & M. officials for the gate tender to accompany the detectives.

The father, winging his way home, has never seen his missing son. Today, dazedly, Mrs. Carlan whispered:

"All his letters were about Ronald. He wanted to know everything about him: how much he weighed, if we were well, and so on. How could anyone do this to us?"

JAMES CARLAN, MM 3C
Flying Home to Join Frantic Wife

She looked out of the kitchen window at the driving rain. "This storm," she said. "He had a cold. I'm so worried. I've been feeling all day as though hI should be fixing his formula."

Mrs. Carlan and her other son, James, Jr., spent the night—a sleepless night for her—in the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Carlan, who lives on the floor above them.

The grieving mother would not sit in the front of the house. She said she was afraid she would look out the window and see the spot where she had left her baby in his carriage.

BARBARA D'LOTT

The carriage was in the first floor hall, the blankets still rumpled just as the kidnaper had disarranged them in lifting Ronald from the carriage.

Just before noon Lt. Kirby issued a public appeal for assistance in finding the baby. He asked:

"Contact me if you observe a your neighborhood a baby of 6

Ship Grounds, Damage Heavy in 72-Mile Gale

The worst November windstorm in recent years, accompanied by driving rain, struck Greater Boston today, blowing at least one ship aground, inundating shore areas, smashing windows and signs and bringing shipping to a standstill. Gusts up to 72 miles an hour were reported by weather observers at Logan International Airport. Between gusts the wind ranged from 40 to 65 miles an hour and the weatherman said there would be no letup before late tonight.

The S.S. Fordham Victory, a War Shipping Administration vessel, was reported aground at Spectacle Island. Coast Guard rescue ships were standing by waiting for an opportunity to assist her.

The Fordham Victory, with a crew of 60, was en route from Searsport, Me., to Boston for repairs. She had no passengers or cargo aboard and came into the harbor without a pilot.

Two fishing vessels were reported in distress off Cape Cod and Coast Guard rescue craft were attempting to get lines aboard. The cutter Harriet Lane went to the assistance of the Nashawena but high seas were preventing efforts to get a line aboard.

The second craft, Edith H., was in trouble six miles east of Chatham, with the cutter General Green standing by to get a line to her.

Along Winthrop Shore dr. mountainous waves poured over the seawall and washed out nearly 100 feet of roadway. Residents prepared to evacuate as the waters filled cellars and inundated streets.

More than a foot of water filled streets in the Short Beach section of Beachmont. Shore areas of Hull, North Weymouth and Quincy reported similar conditions but only minor property damage.

Seven troopships carrying more than 6600 men home from Europe were ordered to ride out the storm in the outer harbor and not attempt to dock until it abated.

Two draggers, Gertrude DeCosta and Shamrock, broke loose from their moorings at the Fish Pier and nearly smashed into the bow of the huge George Washington, troopship tied up at Commonwealth Pier.

The wind sent waves pounding against waterfront structures and caused the retaining wall at Merchants & Miners dock to collapse.

Ferry service to Long island was cancelled, and more than 30 employes were unable to reach their work at Long Island Hospital.

Two women were knocked down by the wind on Atlantic ave. and taken to City Hospital. Mrs. Agees Magni of Evans st., Dorchester, suffered a possible fracture of her right wrist, and Miss Lillian Borgosano, 33, of Orleans st., East Boston, broke her arm.

Martin Grossman, 85, of Dwight st., Souht End, suffered fractures of both legs when he was knocked down by the wind in Congress st.

Longshoremen were unable to work along the waterfront because of the lashing rain and high winds.

The London-to-Boston American Airlines plane was forced to

Low-Point Men in Navy Get Easy Berths on Pull

By PAUL BEAM

HONOLULU, Nov. 29 (INS)—The Hawaii edition of the Stars and Stripes featured a story today on assertedly favorable reassignments given to certain enlisted men including the son of a United States Senator. The paper said Paul Stewart, S 2c, son of Sen. Stewart (D.) of Tennessee, was being reassigned to Norfolk. Stewart, according to the paper, has 18 points. The paper claimed other enlisted men having point ratings comparable to young Stewart's were being reassigned to forward areas.

"The order transferring Stewart," said the Stars and Stripes, "was sent by the commander of service forces, Pacific Fleet, directly to the commanding officer of Waipio amphibious operating base, Oahu island, where Stewart was stationed in the supply division."

"Stewart is believed to be related to an Adm. Wilson of Washington, D. C.

"It was learned also letters have been received at Waipio from Sen. Walsh (D.) of Massachusetts, chairman of the naval affairs committee, and from Rep. Ludlow (D.) Indiana, asking consideration for certain enlisted men.

"Lt. V. A. Wade, newly appointed commanding officer at Waipio commented:

"'Had I known of this sooner, I would have sent him (Stewart) to the forward area.'

"Other official sources informed Stars and Stripes that two men about whom Walsh had written returned to the States last week."

Marshall Seen Shaping Future Aid to China

CHUNGKING, Nov. 29 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in China, told newsmen today he thought Gen. Marshall was being sent to China "to make a survey of the situation and make appropriate recommendations concerning future U. S. assistance—or military aid—to China."

"Few men in the United States, either military or civilian, are better equipped to evaluate a situation than Gen. Marshall. He has a fund of experience in international affairs and enjoys the respect of the President, Congress and the people of the United States," Wedemeyer added.

Gen. Marshall, as special envoy, will replace temporarily at least, the resigned U. S. Ambassador Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley.

Chinese press dispatches meanwhile reported Nationalists have halted their fighting advance toward Mukden, Manchuria, because Russians allegedly agreed to their peaceful entry later.

Nationalists now are mopping up Chinese Communist resistance between Shanhaikwan, gateway to Manchuria, and Kowpangtze, a rail junction 90 miles below Mukden.

HITS AT CRITICS—Superintendent of nurses at City Hospital, Miss Cecilia Knox, hit back at critics today who demanded that she be removed from her post. Hospital Employes' Ass'n accused her of disrupting the morale of employes and being responsible for the resignation of 50 to 60 nurses. She was appointed supervisor two years ago.

Lynn GE Union Votes To Authorize Strike

General Electric employes in the River Works and West Lynn plants voted authorization of a strike if negotiations for a $2 a day wage increase fail, their union announced today.

Union officials said strike action would be withheld pending a strike vote Dec. 13 in GE plants to be conducted by the National Labor Relations Board.

GE Union Officials Predict Strike OK

An overwhelming majority in favor of a strike against General Electric if necessary to back up pay demands was predicted by union officials today as they started counting 20,000 ballots cast by Lynn employees of the corporation at the River Works and West Lynn plants.

The union is demanding a $2 per day wage increase for all GE employes throughout the nation and the Lynn balloting was part of a nationwide vote.

UNRRA Fires 600 in Probe

HERFORD, Germany, Nov. 29 (AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration has dismissed, suspended or arrested more than 600 workers accused of diverting supplies into the black market, Leo J. Margolin of New York, chief of the UNRRA Information Bureau in Europe, said a majority of those involved were Americans and Britons employed in the French, American and British occupation zones in Germany. The action followed a two-month investigation.

He explained the accused wrokers would be replaced by demobilized American and British soldiers.

"Investigations will continue," Margolin said, "and before the first of the year Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick A. Morgan (chief of UNRRA operations in Germany and former assistant chief of staff for Gen. Eisenhower) hopes to have UNRRA a spotless organization.

Rain Delays Salvage In 4 Hub Wards

Scheduled collection of salvage in Wards 15, 16, and 17 in Dorchester, and 18 in Hyde Park, was postopned today by Salvage Director George G. Hyland, because of the heavy rain and winds. Collection will be made Monday.

City trucks will move tomorrow, as scheduled, picking up the waste paper in Wards 19, Jamaica Plain; 20, West Roxbury and Roslindale; 21 and 22, Allston and Brighton.

Truman Says Reconversion Plans Ahead of Schedule

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—President Truman said today that the Administration has not been asleep on the job of reconversion; in fact, that its program is far ahead of schedule.

The President at his news conference released a formal statement dealing with the first hundred days of reconversion progress.

He said unemployment was far less than expected; that the job of reconverting war plants "is virtually completed," and that time lost through work stoppages since August is only "0.76 of 1 per cent of the total working time available."

While the President spoke cheerfully of what had been accomplished, he declared that "inflationary pressures are still great and that the rise of real estate, wholesale and raw materials prices are still danger signals.

MRS. RUTH GREGORY AND MRS. RITA GRAHAM
Sisters' Battle With Former In-Law and New Wife to Court Dec. 15

Warrants in Sessler Family Row Issued

After a bench conference, Judge Casey today issued warrants on complaints and cross-complaints in the family strife between two Dorchester sisters, Mrs. Ruth Gregory and Mrs. Rita Graham, Roseclair st., and their former brother-in-law, Walter E. Sessler, and the latter's new wife, the former Gloria Jean Hartford.

WALTER E. SESSLER

The four petitioners appeared in West Roxbury Court in the aftermath of a Thanksgiving Day visit of the two sisters to the Sessler home in Whitcomb ave., Jamaica Plain, where they had gone to see the two children of their dead sister, Mrs. Josephine Davenport Sessler.

Judge Casey set Dec. 15 as a trial date.

Warrants were issued against Mr. and Mrs. Sessler, charging assault on Rita with a dangerous weapon, to wit, a rifle, with intent to kill, and also charging both with threatening to commit bodily harm.

Sessler, a manual training teacher at the Abraham Lincoln School, and his wife also were charged with threatening to commit bodily harm on Ruth, while Mrs. Sessler additionally was charged with assault with a rifle with intent to kill Ruth.

Judge Casey then issued warrants in behalf of the Jamaica Plain couple in which both Rita and Ruth are charged with assault and battery on Mr. and Mrs. Sessler.

The defendant pairs stood at opposite sides of the bench and had nothing to say while the attorneys, James E. Graham for the Sesslers, and John J. Donovan for the two sisters, conferred with Judge Casey.

The trouble began, according to the story told by Rita and Ruth to police earlier, when they went to the Sessler home to see Walter, Jr., 9, and Margaret, 7, the children of Mrs. Josephine Sessler who died at City Hospital last May 30. They claimed they were bringing gifts but were ejected forcibly.

First incident in the family controversy occurred last July when Ruth was charged in municipal court with splattering Mrs. Sessler with an egg when they met in Boston.

Mrs. Sessler, who became a bride 10 days after the death of Sessler's first wife, said she had been struck with both eggs and tomatoes. The court dismissed the charge.

A 50foot metal chimney on a laundry in Island st., Roxbury, was felled.

Plate glass windows were broken in many stores, including those of I. J. Fox, Washington st., Grant's in Broadway, South Boston, and the Chapman Valve Co., Congress st.

Supt. of Schools Arthur L. Gould ordered afternoon sessions cancelled in Boston elementary schools. High school classes continued. He said morning classes were not called off because of forecasts there would be only intermittent rain.

The weatherman said the slow-moving storm would continue through the night and part of Friday with the possibility snow might be mixed with the rain. He said the winds would diminish gradually to about 30 miles an hour by dawn.

Snow and sleet were covering other parts of New England, including Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Vermont and inland Massachusetts. Hartford reported several inches of snow.

Western New York was blanketed with wet snow. Heaviest fall reported was 16 inches at Knapp Creek in Cattaraugus County.

La Rocca Faces New Quiz at Curley Trial

By STEPHEN B. O'LEARY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—Anthony C. LaRocca, New York contractor who claimed he never got back $13,280 he put up to obtain war contracts, returned to the stand today for cross-examination in the trial of Cong. James M. Curley and four others charged with violating mail fraud statutes. The contractor, who testified all his dealings were with James G. Fuller, now serving an Atlanta penitentiary term on a bad check charge, and that Boston's Mayor-elect figured only in conversational interchanges, was taken under questioning by Atty. James Laughlin, counsel for Fuller, late yesterday.

Laughlin, however, planned to delay his cross-examination long enough to file another motion for a mistrial on behalf of his client on the grounds that Wednesday Washington newspaper articles dealing with Fuller prejudiced his chances of obtaining a fair trial.

A similar motion, filed yesterday on the basis of articles in Washington's Tuesday papers, still is under advisement by Judge James M. Proctor.

Laughlin, who opened his attack late yesterday on LaRocca's dealings with a man identified as an official and stockholder of Engineers Group, Inc., the organization by which the defendants allegedly violated the mail fraud statutes, was expected to continue along this line today.

LaRocca testified that he and his associates had signed three agreements through Fuller with Engineers Group, Inc., for foundation construction work on housing projects in Norfolk, Va., and Cumberland, Md., and for completion of a partially constructed apartment in Detroit.

At the end of his lengthy direct examination by John M. Kelly, assistant to William A. Paisley, special assistant to the attorney general, LaRocca testified in response to direct questions that in each of three projects he had demanded the return of his money because of Engineers Group failure to deliver contracts.

In each case, he said, he had not yet obtained the money.

In response to a question from Judge Proctor, he admitted he had gotten a contract on the Cumberland, Md., housing project, but this was not developed by the prosecution.

LaRocca testified he or his associates had put up $2430 as half-payment of the fee for obtaining the contract for the Norfolk housing project, $3650 as half payment for the Cumberland contract and $7200 as full payment for the Detroit project.

The last agreement, he said, called for payment of expenses as well, and Engineers Group sent him a money order for $300 for "several thousands" in expenses.

He also told of an agreement for a fourth project at Alexandria, Va., but said this was cancelled late in January, 1942, and an agreement was made that he and his partner were to draw checks on the Engineers Group bank account for the $6400 they invested.

It was not brought out whether he had obtained this money.

Cong. Curley, accompanied by his son, Lt. Leo Curley, USNR, spent the day in the courtroom, and on several occasions conferred briefly with his counsel, Atty. William E. Leahy.

Happy Yuletide Waits Boy Cured of Five-Year Illness

By PAULINE WARREN

The Boston American today thinks it has discovered the boy who will be happiest this Christmas. He is a now sturdy lad of 12 who lived with death for five years and recovered despite predictions of specialists. This will be his first Christmas without pain in five years. Robert Dale Caulkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stuart Caulkins of Nichols rd., Cohasset, baffled science from the time he was 7, with strange pains in his stomach doctors could not diagnose.

The pains occurred spasmodically, and soon after they first appeared Bob started wasting away.

Then began for his parents a nightmarish trek to various specialists. Stomach specialists explored his insides and could find nothing wrong. Experts in electric treatment failed.

Psychologists diagnosed the case as mental, "due to his state of mind or vivid imagination."

Years were flying by and Bob was getting wan and listless. The pains occurred more frequently and were more intense.

Last Christmas day came the worst spasm of all. Bob lay on his bed, rigid with pain, unable to eat or speak. This spasm lasted for two days.

His parents and two brothers, Dean, 5, and Donald, 10, despaired that he would live.

For more than a year he was given drugs, which seemed the only way to alleviate the pains.

His mother fought doggedly, convinced the pains could not be the result of a mental condition. She dropped from 136 to 87 pounds, but never stopped praying.

Then she took her boy to the Children's Hospital. The authorities there collected all the diagnoses and decided they would start over.

Disregarding previous photos, they began to X-ray Bob from head to foot. It took weeks, but then came the miracle.

It was discovered that Bob had been born with both kidneys on his left side, and their twisting had kinked his bladder. He was being slowly poisoned.

They told his mother he could only live in that condition to the age of 17, but an operation on a long chance might save him.

After a talk with kidney specialist Dr. Robert Gross, whom they now idolize as a miracle worker, the parents put the matter up to Bob.

"There's no fun in living," cried Bob. "Let me take the chance on the operation."

They did.

Today, less than six months later, Bob skips about like any other sturdy boy. He has gained back 30 pounds, weighs 101 and joins in school sports, even football.

The doctors had to leave both kidneys on the same side, but they say this will not hurt him.

Oklahoma Bank Holdup Trick Style

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 29 (AP)—A lobby full of customers didn't know a robbery was being committed at the Fidelity National Bank yesterday—and the two bandits claim they didn't know they were holding up the teller for $13,505.

The robbery was executed by two Negroes armed only with a pasteboard box containing a note instructing the cashier, Mrs. Betty Jean Phillips, to fill the box with big bills under threat of death.

The note, ostensibly signed by the escaped convict, Matt Kimes, said Kimes and three of the gang were in the bank ready to shoot.

The two boys, captured three hours after the holdup, told police they thought they were merely carrying out a business errand and one, Welch Long, 18, led officers to the hotel where he had hidden the money. He said he was to have delivered the cash to a "Capt. Jackson" at a cafe, but was unable to find it.

Test of Bride's Love Near Fatal

SEATTLE, Nov. 29 (INS)—Police said Mrs. Michael Gemza, a bride of five weeks, was in critical condition today from a bullet wound in her throat, allegedly received to prove her love for her husband.

Det. Lt. R. B. Zeldenrust said Gemza, admittedly jealous and suspicious, prepared to test the mettle of his wife's love.

Gemza told detectives he unloaded a pistol and told her to pull the trigger if she loved him.

She told him to fire the gun himself. A bullet he claimed to have overlooked was discharged.

He frantically summoned police, administered first aid and heard his wife forgive him for his suspicions.

Iran Insurgents Quit Advance on Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 29 (AP)—Azerbaijan insurgent forces, swerving toward the Caspian sea after their push down the main railroad toward Tehran, apparently had abandoned today any attempt to march upon the Iranian capital.

Conant Urges Training Bill Halt

President James B. Conant of Harvard today urged that passage of a universal military training bill be postponed until a special commission completes a study of future needs in manpower and materials.

Conant told the House military affairs committee the nation must know "whether or not the advent of the atomic bomb makes large bodies of military trained citizens obsolete, or whether it makes universal military training more urgent than ever."

He said he was of opinion a commission of military, diplomatic, industrial, scientific and educational representatives should be appointed to study national defense.

VINEGAR PRICE JUMPS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The retail price for cider vinegar will go up from four to 20 cents a gallon beginning Dec. 4.

British Take Over City of Soerabaja

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 29 (AP)—The British Command officially announced today the complete occupation of the city of Soerabaja, scene of bitter fighting in recent weeks between Indonesian nationalists and British Indian troops, and said a local administration had been set up there under British control.

Military operations continued south of Soerabaja, where 12 Indonesian guns were knocked out yesterday.

Remington-Rand Cuts Commissions

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Remington-Rand, Inc., office equipment manufacturers, announced today commissions to salesmen would be cut 25 per cent due to higher manufacturing costs, price controls and a heavy backlog of orders.

Salesmen earning $5000 a year or less will be exempt.

ROYALTY---? AN HEIRESS---? JUST PLAIN JANIE--?

When a very certain Cheerful Cherub is given the rites to the family name in the not too far distant future she or he will be completely togged out in Christening finery as elegant as any in the land. The label is on the outfit to vouch it was fashioned by one of the most famous designers of handmade luxuries and of course, it was purchased in Filene's Basement for a mere trifle, as Christening outfits go! Did some future Margaret O'Brien get it—will some heir to wealth or prince royal wear it or did just some plain Ike, Mike or Janie get it? That we don't know—but we do know that some proud parent snooped here and there shopping the town and when Christening garments from the country's most eminent designer were offered by the Only Store Of Its Kind In The World recently—a coat, bonnet and dress were seized with ecstacy and starry-eyed amazement. The coat and bonnet a mere $25 and the dress $12.95 with oodles and oodles of hand embroidery that took hours and hours of time. Tsch—Tsch—not all our progeny can afford to make their first formal debut in such elegant finery—$37.95 was only a fraction of the usual price of these fine samples (some slightly soiled from handling), but if you are H-imaging, christening clothes fit for kings and queens are not the only things we specialize in—Filene's Basement carries all the necessaries from mere didies to complete layettes at famous savings. There will be no $25 coat and bonnet Christening sets in the collection ready here Friday, but from $12.95 on down, baby clothes treasures we believe the like of which you will find it pretty hard to duplicate elsewhere at any price, indeed NOT at Filene's Basement UNextravagant prices! FOR rare Christmas giving.

Reich Policy Change Likely

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—A drastic revision of American policy on Germany is expected by diplomatic officials to result from Byron Price's report to President Truman on the potential failure of present German administration.

One result of any such change may be to eliminate to a great extent the remaining influence of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., over German control policy.

With his so-called hard peace plan, the former Secretary of the Treasury had great influence in the writing of the basic German policy directive. This is the directive under which the American military government in Germany functioned originally and from which it still draws considerable authority even though the Big Three declaration at Potsdam is now the basic guide.

Price recommended that the directive be rewritten "into a few hundred words of general principles."

He said its detailed provisions "fall with untold force upon Gen. Eisenhower's officers, now long experienced in the actual business of dealing with the Germans."

Bette in Blue

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29 (AP)—Bette Davis will wear something blue when she weds William Grant Sherry at Laguna Beach tomorrow afternoon, she said today.

A blue and gray checked dress, embroidered with steel beads, and a blue feathered hat are to be her wedding outfit.

Dwight F. Davis Dies in Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) —Dwight F. Davis, war secretary under President Coolidge and donor of the Davis Cup emblematic of the international team tennis championship, died last night at his home. He was 66.

Davis had suffered from a heart ailment for the last six months. With him when the end came were his wife, Pauline; son, Dwight F., Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. Alice D. Makins, Mrs. Cynthia Martin and Mrs. Helen Hermes.

While still a student in college, Davis paired with Holcombe Ward to win the national doubles tennis championship three times.

He came to Washington when President Harding appointed him director of the War Finance Corp., became assistant secretary of War two years later and in 1925 succeeded John W. Weeks as secretary. He was governor general of the Philippines from 1929 to 1932.

Jap Diet Cool To Reform Plan

TOKYO, Nov. 29 (AP)—Half-hearted applause greeted a suggestion in the Japanese Diet today that the emperor system should be perpetuated under a Japanese-style democracy.

Premier Kijure Shidehara and one of Japan's leading reconstruction politicians, Ichiro Hatoyama, voiced the opinion in an unprecedented legislative discussion.

The premier ignored a statement by one member that he "presumed the cabinet will resign right after this Diet session."

Beatrice Fairfax Originator Dies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (INS)—Mrs. Marie Manning Gasch, famous newspaper and magazine writer, who created the Beatrice Fairfax column for the Hearst newspapers more than 40 years ago, died suddenly here following a heart attack. She was 70.

Mrs. Gasch had been in good health and was continuing her newspaper work at the time she was stricken.

She leaves her husband, Herman E. Gasch, and two sons, Oliver and Manning.

Entering newspaper work in London, Mrs. Gasch became a special writer for the New York Evening Journal, and began the writing of her Beatrice Fairfax column in 1898.

Japs' Atomic Bomb Equipment Into Sea

TOKYO, Nov. 29 (AP)—More than 350 tons of atomic energy equipment from the Nisrina laboratory of the Institute of Physical and Chemical Research was dumped into the sea off Yokohama today.

The material was all that was left from two cyclotrons destroyed by Eighth Army personnel.

"Was I WRONG, back in 1945!"

1. "It doesn't seem possible World War II was ten years ago! I couldn't get into the Service, so I did my bit turning out trucks. Those were the hardest four years I ever put in, but believe me, the pay was good!"

2. "I figured I'd be smart if I saved some extra money while I could. There were things we needed, but many of them you just couldn't get. So, we settled for window shopping, and started saving in a big way.

3. "Every pay day I put something into War Bonds. I bought some more life insurance, and salted away a tidy little sum in the bank. It got to be kind of fun, seeing how fast we could pile it up.

4. "Then the war ended, and you could buy most things again. We got what we just had to have—but we didn't stop there. We bought everything in sight! And little by little, our nest egg melted away.

5. "I should have taken it slow and easy. By now I'd be collecting 100 dollars for every 75 I put into War Bonds—and I'd still have a nice nest egg to fall back on. Was I WRONG, back in 1945!"

BUT IT IS STILL 1945. If we use our savings wisely now, we can help to avoid inflationary price increases . . . and at the same time maintain backlogs for the kind of future we all desire. If we spend our money carelessly now, we may look back some day with regret.

During the war, millions of Americans saved to protect their families, to educate their children, to start a business of their own, to own their own home, to retire. Today they are still following the advice of our Government, buying only what they really need until civilian goods are plentiful, buying Victory Bonds, holding on to their War Bonds and life insurance, and maintaining their savings accounts. Are you one of them?

America's life insurance companies are sponsoring this program of information as a public service to the 70,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American citizen."

UAV Seek Old Toys For Needy Children

Any old toys you may have around the house — whether broken or outgrown by your children—will be gratefully accepted by the United American Veterans who want to fix them up and give them to children who otherwise wouldn't get any for Christmas.

Toys may be sent to the United American Veterans at 212 Essex st., Boston, or you may call Liberty 5219 and a veteran will come and get them.

Calls His Shots

RENO, Nev., Nov. 29 (AP) —Patrolman Robert Ebeling thought a pedestrian was "joking" when he asked "how much will it cost me to hit my wife?"

Ebeling said, "It'll cost you $50." The man slapped his Ebeling wasn't joking when he took the man—identified as Bill Crowson, 49, of Montana —to court. The judge fined Crowson $50.

Switch to Electric Cooking?

Are you interested in serving more nutritious meals to your family in the future?

- With more ease and speed than you have ever known before?
- In cool, comfortable surroundings?
- And with economy?

We believe homemakers will answer YES! Here are some reasons why we recommend ELECTRIC cooking for your consideration.

ELECTRIC COOKING IS CLEAN: Electric heat is sootless heat. Pans stay bright. Walls, windows and curtains stay clean.

HEALTHFUL: Precious vitamins and natural food juices are preserved when you cook electrically – more nutrition for your family.

COOL: Electric range ovens are thoroughly insulated. Surface units transfer heat directly to the utensils with minimum loss of heat.

SAFE: An electric range is as safe as electric light. The insulated oven keeps the exterior cool.

EASILY CONTROLLED: The same switch setting provides the same cooking temperature every time.

ECONOMICAL: Heat is accurately measured and controlled by the switch – and you can cook on "stored" heat a large percentage of the time.

FAST: Electric heat is instantaneously available and cooks as fast as food will cook.

EXACT: Electric heat on a given speed never varies. Precision-built oven thermostat insures accurately controlled temperature.

AUTOMATIC: Many electric ranges have automatic timing devices so that meals can be perfectly cooked in your absence.

There's an electrical future ahead...

and BOSTON EDISON wants to help you make the most of it.

Stormy Weather

As a northeasterly storm lashed the New England coast today, Boston got a full share of the gale velocity winds and intermittetn rain. This floating railroad dock is being pounded by heavy seas just off Northern ave. and is practically inundated. INP by Bill Jones

Flying Comfort

Girls try out accommodations on new stratocruiser of Pan American Airways which will soon fly on New York-London run. The 65-ton, 80 passenger plane has a cruising speed of 340 m. p. h. and is capable of non-stop flight with full passenger, baggage, mail and express complements. INP

SHALL WE HAVE A PORT?

RALPH E. FLANDERS, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, has shown how our woefully obsolete port can be saved.

The project which Mr. Flanders has outlined includes modern berths and docking facilities, a new thoroughfare to parallel Atlantic ave., and rail connections between the North and South Stations.

WILL THIS OBVIOUSLY PRACTICAL PLAN BE ADOPTED?

OR, LIKE SO MANY OF ITS PREDECESSORS, WILL IT BE LOCKED AWAY IN SOME VAULT?

The choice is up to the people of Boston and Massachusetts who will always be threatened with periods of depression as long as the Commonwealth's prime terminal remains in its present neglected condition.

We have been talking about developing the port for more than a year.

We have appropriated $15,000,000 to begin the work.

But almost nothing has been accomplished.

WHY?

The Governor, legislators and all other responsible officials should arouse and exert themselves before the people, weary of seeing their prosperity surrendered to more alert maritime areas, rise up in justified indignation and put an end to politics and procrastination on Beacon Hill.

GRIM WARNING

AN ALMOST complete breakdown of the family system in America within the next generation was forecast yesterday by Prof. Carle C. Zimmerman of Harvard in a speech before the Massachusetts Conference of Social Work.

Censuring the trends of the day in divorce, childlessness, juvenile delinquency and parental irresponsibility, the professor warned that there is "very little public knowledge of the nearness, the inescapability and the seriousness of this impending crisis."

And, he added, the present marriage and divorce laws are "FAR TOO LOOSE."

The professor is 100 per cent right.

A State that truly values family life cannot condone statutes which hold that a frown, a harsh word or a misunderstanding is sufficient reason for breaking marital vows and depriving little children of the love and affection of both father and mother.

As long as a divorce is as easy to obtain as a candy bar, marriage will be mocked and desecrated increasingly, not only in this Commonwealth but in all others.

Law-makers have plenty of time for proposals and propositions which are seldom worth the paper on which they are written.

But, for some mysterious reason, few have the gumption to take a firm stand against paganish legislation, lax courts, lazy judges, fee-hungry lawyers and the other harmful influences which are exploiting divorce at the expense of marriage.

GOOD INVESTMENT

WHEN THE Legislature convenes, its members will be asked to appropriate money for the construction of a 100-room dormitory at Lowell Textile Institute.

This is one of our most essential schools, since it serves the great cloth-producing mills in which so many of our people work and enables these plants to compete more effectively with those in the South and West.

It deserves encouragement, and the people, aware and proud of its accomplishments, will not hesitate to give it.

Actually, the appropriation will be a long-term loan, every dollar being repaid eventually to the State from students' fees.

Our returning service men want educational opportunities, particularly the kind that permits them to remain in their home communities and contribute to the growth and betterment of Massachusetts.

They will find these opportunities at Lowell Textile Institute if the lawmakers provide additional housing accommodations.

Little sleepy head
Close your baby eyes
And dream of angels singing
Joys they're bringing.
Just go to sleep, my little dear,
Sleep peacefully, for I am here
And God is near.
Drift into slumberland
There is nothing you'll miss
And when morning comes around again
I'll greet you with a kiss.

AUTHOR OF the above wrote it as a lullaby for her baby daughter. What lullaby did your mother sing you to sleep with? I know a young woman who uses "Pennies from Heaven" as a lullaby . . . An extremely clever woman I know expressed the belief that it is a great mistake for a man to become too dependent on a woman. She said when a man reaches the state where "he is lost in a fog without his wife" there is a possibility it might have an adverse effect on his career. He begins to place too much value on his wife's opinion as to the conduct of his affairs. Some advice of women as to business or the handling of a career is very good, said the woman I am quoting, but a lot of it is terrible. Successful men usually know when to take a wife's advice and when to leave it alone. The "too dependent" man always takes it. As the woman giving voice to this opinion is a highly successful person in close touch with many other successful people, I have instructed our Men & Mules Department to engage in some research on the matter of "too dependent" husbands.

Before advising further, our H. & W. experts would like to know how you are on the dynamic approach. FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—There are indications that the strike of the United Auto Workers against General Motors will develop into a strike across the country, partly by the co-operation of sympathetic unions in other industries and, for the remainder, by the necessity of still other industries to shut up shop for lack of materials and markets for their products.

Westbrook Pegler

Inflation, want, vast unrest, rising to violent disorder and even revolution, are the obvious probabilities. But another probability is the passage of sound laws for the control of organizations which, at present, have the power to overthrow the government on the pretext of legitimate disputes over wages.

It has been noted that, for the first time since 1933, a President of the United States, Mr. Truman, recently admonished unions in a way to put the public interest and the national welfare above the will of union executives who invariably engineer and manage such strikes, with a pretense that they are merely obeying the expressed will of their subject members.

In the General Motors strike it may be admitted, only for the sake of argument, that the vote was legitimate, with a reminder, however, that in the Allis-Chalmers strike of the same union, during Stalin's collaboration with Hitler, Communists caused 2000 fraudulent votes to be cast and counted.

The aim of the Communists, apparently, was to keep this country weak in arms and the tools of production and to prevent our helping Britain in her war against Stalin's then ally, Adolf Hitler.

GRANTED THAT the vote was honestly conducted and counted this time, the fact remains that the issue which caused the strike was not created by the rank and file but cooked up by the union executives.

The issue is a 30 per cent increase in pay with the proviso that no part of this increase should be passed along to the consuming public.

To Communists, as a rule, the alternative of a national general strike and its consequences is even more desirable than the smaller step toward union rule of industry.

This intention was revealed inadvertently about the time that Franklin D. Roosevelt was being nominated for his fourth term when a union agent told an executive of a company manufacturing ball and roller bearings that, when Russia was saved from Hitler, the American Communists would slash at the jugular.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, striking from England, had crippled Germany's production of bearings for marine equipment, land vehicles and countless machines of war production, by bombing the German bearing factories at Schweinfurt.

The Communists apparently made note of this for future action. At present the threat is being fulfilled in Canton, O., and Philadelphia by groups which have even prevented company executives from entering their offices and, by force of numbers, have produced anarchy through intimidation of the police, the courts and the elected public officials.

EVERYTHING THAT rolls on wheels requires bearings. Engines require them. Railroad equipment, now badly dilapidated and scant, cannot move or even be produced without them.

In collaboration with the bearing workers the Auto Workers' Union now strikes General Motors and the results ramify way back to the mines and forests, the glass factories, through the railroad and motor freight lines, into every conceivable area and recess of economic life, even to the church collections.

Given sufficient time, these few union executives, pretending to stand against inflation by opposing increases in the cost of automobiles, can throw out of work not a mere half-million or million workers but almost all of the workers in the United States.

IF MR. TRUMAN gives leadership in a course which would be praised by the millions of Americans whose future is here menaced by the design of a few union executives, the old Roosevelt blockade in the Senate can be blasted.

The lower house repeatedly has passed fair, moderate bills which were smothered in the Senate by menials who touched their forelocks to the White House.

But the temper of the people has changed. War veterans are being locked out of jobs in more and more industries and even some of the biggest boosters of the old Roosevelt regime have shown fright recently and counselled the unions not to go too far.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29—If anyone had told me a year ago that Joan Crawford would beg permission to do a role that doesn't start until the 40th page of the script, I would have said they needed their head examined. Well, the unbelievable has happened. Joan read "Humoresque" and there is a character of a woman—a dipsomaniac—which has been written in, which so intrigued her that she telephoned Jack Warner and asked permission to play the part. "But you have 'The Secret' to start," said Jack. "I'll do that, too, if I can do 'Humoresque'," she told him.

Joan Crawford

Well, you know that Jack and Jerry Wald, the producer, did somersaults because the part cries for a Crawford. So in two weeks Joan starts with John Garfield, Anne Revere and Jean Negulesco, the director. Five weeks later she makes "The Secret." I couldn't help remarking how much more sensible stars are today. They know it is the value of the role and not the length of it which makes for continued success.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—Unless I can't understand simple English, which has been suggested, former Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles told the Pearl Harbor investigating committee that we had to keep our fleet tied up in Hawaii because withdrawal would have encouraged Japanese aggression.

Sumner Welles

In other words, if we had taken the fleet away so it wouldn't be idling there like a bunch of sitting ducks, the Japs would have construed it as weakness and yielding.

I will admit there is practically no one, short of a mongoloid idiot, who knows less about naval strategy than I do, but I can't go for that one. You know, from reading the testimony, what our naval experts thought about it, too, but they were overruled by our non-seagoing wizards of ooze.

Here we were, as has been made painfully clear at the inquiry, getting increasingly tough with Japan, but with a fleet which was in no condition to fight. So—if we accept Welles' argument—the thing to do was put this unfit fleet out in front where it could be flattened with one surprise Sunday punch.

To reduce the thing to simple terms, what would you think of a prize fight manager who knew his boy was not ready, but kept hurling challenges at another fighter—and then sent his boy into the ring with instructions to bare his chest like Ajax defying the lightning, instead of backing away until he found an opening?

There's no cowardice in keeping away from the other fellow's haymaker until you can lure him off balance and then give him the one-two kayo. It's just simple strategy. And once you knock him out, the question of whether you were afraid of him or not has ceased to matter.

IF WE WEREN'T ready to fight, we had no right to keep threatening the Japs with dire retribution if they didn't lay off China. It's too much like a cripple butting into a private street corner brawl in which he had no business.

Anyway, as now seems to be the case, we got into the worst war in history to clear the Japanese out of China so the Chinese could go back to fighting each other without third party interference!

I SEE WHERE the Nazi's former foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, wants to call Lady Astor and members of Britain's "Cliveden set" as witnesses at his war crimes trial.

My opinion is that Von Ribbentrop would be well advised to take his medicine without calling upon Lady Astor for aid.

After being forced to listen to the lady for a while it is better than a 5-1 bet that Ribby would prefer to be taken out and quietly shot.

The situation reminds me of a song we used to sing on tour with the baseball teams. There was always certain to be one earbender in the crowd. When he would get a victim cornered, we would all begin to chant—with slight variations:

"It's a terrible death to die,
A terrible death to die.
It's a terrible death to be talked to death.
It's a terrible death to die."

A SENATE page boy got into a cab with a friend of mine early the other morning. A chummy type, the lad began talking about his job and explained he was new at it.

"In fact," he said, "I'm still going to the page boys' school. But they pay us the regular salary—$1.25 a day. That isn't bad dough for going to school, is it?"

My friend replied it was very high-class dough indeed; that when he went to school the best he could do was a quarter a week which he had to wheedle out of his old man—and practically bind himself to after-school peonage into the bargain.

My friend then asked the page boy what they did in school.

"Oh, we do a lot of things," said the kid. "This morning we are going to work on dummies!"

"On dummies?"

"Yeh, that's how they teach us courtesy and politeness. The dummies are seated in chairs and are supposed to be Senators. We are taught how to approach them. We go up to one of the dummies and say:

"'Good morning, Senator, I have a message for you!'"

My friend, who is a nosey lout, asked the boy what he would do if it didn't happen to be morning.

"We haven't got to that yet," said the kid. "But I suppose we would say: 'Good afternoon, Senator. I have another message for you!'"

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My son entered service last August. At the time of induction it was not necessary for me to seek dependency allotment, although my son helped defray household expenses by working after school and Saturdays. Recently I underwent an operation and doubt whether I shall be able to work in the future. Is it possible for my son to apply now for an allotment, and what amount would I be entitled to? E. G., Amesbury.

A—Yes, your son may apply for an allotment. It will be a function of the Office of Dependency and Benefits to decide on eligibility, also whether $37 partial dependency or $50 chief support. Application may be made by son through his commanding officer.

Q—If a veteran's discharge is reviewed by War Dept. board and found without merit, can he appeal to some upper judicial body? S. P. J., Lynn.

A—Under GI Bill, no further apeal. Last resort would be Congressional action, or President as comander-in-chief of Army.

Q—I have a brother who until recently has been reported as missing in action. War Dept. sent a letter a few days ago, stating he is now presumed to be dead, after 12 months. Do we receive any further official notice of soldier's death? M. L., Jamaica Plain.

A—The letter you received from Adjutant General declaring your brother believed dead is ofical documentary evidence. You will receive a further letter of sympathy from Secretary of War.

Q—Can the Merchant Marine obtain the state bonus? If so, where do they apply? Has a bill been passed by Congress giving members of MM benefits of GI Bill? C. D., Newport, R. I.

A—No to the first two questions. On the last question, however, bills have been filed in Congress seeking benefits for members of MM, but no action has been taken.

Q—I received a letter from the Army stating my allotment checks were stopped because my husband had been discharged from the Army. He failed to return home, and I would like to know where to write seeking information as to where and when he was discharged. We have 10 children and I certainly need financial assistance now. E. L., Lowell.

A—Suggest you write Adjutant General, War Dept., Washington, D. C. Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers might be able to assist you in getting desired information.

Q—In about a month I will receive an honorable discharge from the Navy. While in service I suffered five attacks of malaria. When returned to civilian life will I receive any kind of a pension? W. H. I., Boston.

A—That will be a matter to be decided by Veterans' Administration after you have filed claim for service-connected disability. This may be done at point of discharge.

Q—What is the grace period allowed on National Service Life Insurance? R. E., New Bedford.

A—A total of 31 days allowed following due date.

Q—Please tell me where the U. S. S. Charles J. Kimmel D. E. 581 will return to the U. S.? L. D., South Boston.

A—Navy Dept. releases information on returning vessels only on arrival. That ship has not appeared on any list thus far released. On many occasions names of ships leaving Pacific ports have been released for publication, but they have been the larger type vessels.

Q—I was sent to a Veterans' Administration hospital by the Navy, and upon arrival was given my honorable discharge from service. At the hospital I was informed that my illness could not be cured and was released. I am now going to be examined by a civilian physician who has requested my medical records and also X-ray plates. Will the outside examination and treatment I expect to receive bar me from returning to a vets' hospital later, if necessary? J. R. D., Peabody.

A—No, you will be allowed hospitalization for illness if declared service-connected. If non-service disability, you must show inability to pay for private hospitalization, and admittance would depend on whether or not a bed was available.

months whose presence you hadn't known of before. Your information will be held in strictest confidence."

Kirby this morning went to Chelsea Memorial Hospital, where Ronald was born, and obtained footprints of the child. The hospital makes a practice of footprint procedure as a safeguard for identification.

Not losing sight of the fact that Ronald Carlan might have been taken by a young mother who had lost her own baby in childbirth, other police were checking hospitals and physicians to learn what women had suffered that agony within the last year. The person who lifted Ronald from his carriage also took the nursing bottle and a shawl.

Hospitals in this area were also being checked for the names of persons who had been treated for mental illnesses. The possibility Ronald Carlan might have been taken away by a demented person was impressed on police when they learned a man of that classification had been in the neighborhood of the baby' shome yesterday.

Residents reported he was a mental patient at the Chelsea Naval Hospital. They said he had been bragging, "How easy I could get rid of a body."

Chelsea police were to question him at the hospital today.

Another possibility, that Ronald Carlan may have been spirited away by gypsies, widened the search to Boston, Malden, Revere and other communities where gypsies have taken winter quarters in vacant stores. Gypsies in Chelsea were questioned about visitors who came and went yesterday, but the answers did not leave police satisfied.

Not discounted was the chance that the abduction had been staged by a boy or girl. Basements, empty houses and vacant stores of the neighborhood were being searched.

Ronald Carlan was kidnaped within 50 feet from the front door of his home. It was a sheltered spot near an iron fence which surrounds the Williams School. The afternoon sunlight has a warmth there which makes it a favorite spot for mothers and babies. Many women living nearby have left their babies there in the past.

Sister Kenny Fund Drive Gets Off to Good Start

With the indorsement of Gov. Tobin and Mayor Kerrigan, and the approval of both the Chamber of Commerce and the Boston Better Business Bureau, the local campaign to raise funds for the Sister Kenny Foundation for treatment of infantile paralysis has made an excellent start, Bert McKenzie, head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures here and New England field director for the fund, reported today.

More than a hundred contributions, ranging from one dollar to $100 were received yesterday. This represents only part of the contributions, McKenzie said, as many persons have sent contributions directly to Bing Crosby, national chairman.

Pointing out that one-half the Massachusetts quota of $200,000 in the drive is to be set apart for the establishment of Sister Kenny foundations and clinics in the state, McKenzie urged contributors to send donations to his office in order that the state may get credit.

Half the total collected will be used to enlarge the Sister Kenny national foundation in Minneapolis and to aid in research work on infantile.

The Sister Kenny Foundation receives no aid from any source other than the general public, McKenzie said, and in no way interferes with other organizations fighting the great American scourge.

Contributions should be sent to the Sister Kenny Foundation, care of Bert McKenzie, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, 46 Church st., Boston.

Beauty

Cake Make-Up Glamor

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

NONE OF THAT "weep and you weep alone" stuff for any gal who bears the slightest captivating resemblance to Columbia's honey-faced Janis Carter. She has what it takes to be happy and honored . . . a beautiful smile, pearly teeth and a complexion the closest thing to heaven . . . jewel-cut and smooth. A cake make-up foundation, "mothered" since its beginning by the fashion models for whom it was especially created . . . is one way to achieve facial oomph . . . make it shoot off sparks like a blue-white diamond.

"I'D LIKE to make myself over."

Again and again . . . in ever so many, many letters which have recently reached our desk . . . that's been the eternal cry and recurrent theme song of girls, who . . . like "K. L., of Boston" . . . expecting their sweethearts or husbands home from the war for keeps in a matter of a few months . . . all of a sudden want to become pin-up beauties.

Naturally, we don't blame the darlings who've kept the home fires burning, patiently waiting for that great moment of reunion. They're smart enough not to want that happy clinch to turn into a boomerang . . . they don't want the meeting to be a sad awakening . . . they don't want their guy to realize suddenly his gal is a "dud."

We're afraid the returning stalwarts are going to be extremely critical of femininity when they take up normal life again. As G.I.'s they were treated to an overdose of Hollywood glamor in programs of entertainment. They watched those curvaceous lovelies go through their theatrical paces . . . pin-up cuties who sang and danced and made a serviceman's life a little easier to endure. Since there's very little glamor attached to routine living . . . the girl of his dreams must supply the extra oomph . . . delightful to see.

And, most gals can get it from a cake make-up base which 16 of New York's top-flight fashion models "mothered" since its incipiency. It's a facial beautifier which these glamorous gals have endorsed as their own and for themselves. A good protector that will not only hold precious moisture in the skin . . . it also gives a smooth, flattering look to the complexion

PROTECTS, GLAMORIZES

You know how important a model's face is . . . practically her fame and fortune. Make-up is a positive must with them . . . and because this cake foundation contains an ingredient that keeps the skin from drying . . . it's for them . . . sitting as they do for hours before camera lights . . . or walking the runways for spectators to gaze upon and admire.

Models can't afford to cover their faces with a make-up that gives the pasty quality of a mask. The youthful quality must be preserved . . . in a make-up that protects as well as glamorizes. This is it . . . and the shades range from natural to rose tan.

For the name of this cake make-up exclusive with the fashion models, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Girl of 19 Prefers Man In 30's as Companion

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of 19 but have always been considered older than I really am. I go with a man who is in his 30's. We are very congenial. He never goes anywhere without me except to work. It isn't this silly love stuff, but we enjoy life and try to make the most of it. He tells me I'm not like most girls my age.

Friends say to me, why don't you get a friend your own age? But, Miss Fairfax, I don't care for them, as most of the fellows my age are so wild, etc. My real boy friend was killed in action over a year ago, and one reason I go around with this older man is because he resembles my deceased boy friend.

Please tell me what to do—I need your advice very much.

B. L.

The difference in ages you mention is not a bar to happiness. You find young men nearer your own age inclined to be wild; what better reason could you have for marrying one who is older and steadier?

The fact that this man suggests your sweetheart killed in action will only serve to tighten the bond that holds you.

Welcome Balance

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

BECAUSE THE MAIN COURSE of fall and winter meals leans toward heavier foods, a fruit dessert frequently offers welcome balance. Such a dessert is toasted pears. This dessert combines seasonable fresh pears with crisp cereal flakes and points up their mingled flavors with a tangy lemon cream sauce. This is a combination of good foods which adds good nutrition to luncheon or dinner.

TOASTED PEARS WITH LEMON CREAM SAUCE

6 large fresh pears
3 tbsp. lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
2½ cups corn flakes
Sauce:
1-3 cup sifted confectioner's sugar
1 cup sour cream
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. grated lemon rind

Peel, halve and core pears. Dip at once into lemon juice in which sugar has been dissolved. Dip in melted butter. Roll in crushed corn flakes. Arrange pears cut side up in shallow baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 to 375 deg. F.) for 20 to 25 minutes or until pears are tender but not soft. To make lemon cream sauce, put confectioner's sugar into the sour cream, add lemon juice and rind. Makes 6 servings.

If you would like to give fresh pears a glamorizing treatment that will make them one of the family's favorite desserts, here's the way. Peel, core, and cut the pears into halves; then simmer until tender in a sultry chocolate sauce. The delicately perfumed pear, thinly coated with a sheath of chocolate sauce, makes a flavor affinity that's practically perfection. This exotic combination may sound like a company dessert, but it's actually so simple you'll wonder why you didn't dream it up before.

SPICY CHOCOLATE PEARS

2-3 cup sugar
1 tbsp. cornstarch
¼ tsp. cloves
1 tsp. cinnamon
1½ tsp. cocoa
1 cup water
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
3 pears

Combine first 5 ingredients. Add water gradually. Add butter. Heat to boiling. Halve, pare and core the pears and add to the mixture. Simmer until fruit is tender, stirring frequently. If pears are tender before liquid is thickened, remove them and continue cooking the liquid. Serve sauce over pears warm or cool. Makes 3 servings.

And don't overlook the good old standbys — canned fruits. This elegant appearing dessert, for example, brings sunshine to your table in the late fall or dead of winter. Smiling canned cling peaches delight appetite no matter what time of year it is. This dessert is particularly attractive and delicious

PEACH GELATIN

4 to 5 canned cling peach halves
1 pkg. raspberry flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup peach syrup

Arrange peach halves, smooth side down, in bottom of a large round mold or pan. Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add peach syrup and stir to blend. Pour sufficient gelatin over peaches to cover. Chill. Chill remaining gelatin until congealed but not firm. Whip until very light and thick. Pour over plain gelatin. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with table cream, soft custard or whipped cream, if available. Makes 6 or more servings.

Fashion

WHAT WOMAN wouldn't be in the festive mood and decidedly becoming to the season . . . if over her slim and graceful body was draped the exquisite interpretation involved in this Russian broadtail and ermine evening coat! Beautifully tailored, magnificently designed . . . It would shine in the after-dark social hours like the moon over Miami . . . the rhythmic tune theme of not so long ago. Mutual's Singing Lady, Leah Ray is the statuesque brunette who can wear it, too—R. M.

The Correct Thing

GIVE IT IN PRIVATE! The engaged girl always receives her ring in private. If the engagement is announced at a party, she should have her ring before the announcement is made. It is not good form for her fiance to present the ring in the presence of the guests.

More Needed Than Clothes

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THERE'S a lot more to getting dressed up for the holidays than just buying yourself a new dress. At least there is if you do it thoroughly. A dress, the finest in the world, is not going to be able to live you down, a thing I hope you will keep in mind. For better or for worse, the lady inside the dress has an effect on it, and during the holidays I think you ought to make your influence good.

If you look bitter, sulky, discontented, or just dull, your clothes cannot show off to the best advantage. This may sound like nonsense until you think about it. Look at the ladies you see all dressed up, and notice how they make or mar the effect of what they are wearing, by how they look personally, apart from body lines, and such things. A shining expression of face, a buoyant look to a body, poised and graceful movements, all do things to give clothes their maximum value in the eyes of onlookers.

English-Born Duke Nabbed as Nazi Front

NUERNBERG, Nov. 29 (AP)—The U. S. military government at Coburg today announced the arrest of Karl Eduard, Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and a grandson of Britain's Queen Victoria.

The Duke was president of the German Red Cross and held a general's rank in the Nazi storm troops. The Nazis used English-born Karl Eduard, 61, as a show piece to demonstrate that the German aristocracy favored the Nazi regime.

OPA Grants Price Boost On Low-Cost Furniture

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (INS)—The OPA acted today to encourage production of low and medium-priced furniture by permitting increases in manufacturers' prices ranging up to 20 per cent.

Formal orders authorizing the increases probably will be issued late in December. OPA explained that advance notice is being given manufacturers to enable them to begin production in time for the January wholesale furniture market.

Any forecast on the effect of the proposed increases on consumer prices, pending consultation with distributors concerning their ability to absorb cost increases, was withheld.

However, OPA predicted that the public should benefit by the program since low and medium-priced furniture has largely disappeared from the market.

Increases granted to individual manufacturers for low and medium bracket lines will be based on March, 1942, prices.

Plan Tea on Monday

By BETTY ALDEN

MRS. BARTLETT HARWOOD, president of the Girls' Clubs of Boston, currently on a trip to New York, will head the pourers at an invitation tea to be given Monday at the Caledonian Market, 85 Newbury st., which has just opened a new season to benefit the Girls' Clubs.

The other pourers will be Mrs. Robert F. Herrick, chairman of the Caledonian; Mrs. Byron Tosi, Mrs. John F. Yerxa, Mrs. James W. Sever, Miss Mary Driscoll, Mrs. John S. Ames, Jr., and Mrs. Horatio A. Lamb. Invitations have gone out to members of the board of the Boys' Clubs, Boys' and Girls' Camps, and Girls' Clubs, asking for all kinds of household wares, jewelry and bric-a-brac to be sold at the shop which is entirely dependent on donations.

DINING at the Ritz—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cushman of Mt. Vernon st., with their son-in-law and daughter, Col. and Mrs. Stewart Taft Beach, and granddaughter, Judy, who have been visiting from Washington.

Col. Beach, a descendant of President Taft, has been awarded the Legion of Merit for his work in Army Public Relations. He was in the group of Army officers conducting a tour of American editors to German concentration camps last summer and more recently was in the party which escorted Gen. Wainwright from the West Coast to parades and receptions in his honor at Washington and New York. Col. Beach is an author and publisher in civilian life.

Next to the Cushman table, a family dinner party included Maj. and Mrs. P. Stokes Gaither of Indian Acre Farm, Medfield, and the latter's brother, Mr. George Peabody Hamlin. A very special dinner with champagne and a handsome lavender chrysanthemum centerpiece was attended by the newly-wed Mr. and Mrs. Justin Griess of Hamilton and the former's daughter, Ann Griess, who wore a beautiful gown of black silk printed with clusters of pink and lavender lilacs.

Last Weeks for 'Oklahoma!'

But two more weeks of "Oklahoma!" at the Colonial. The final fortnight of this record-breaking engagement will commence Monday evening.

The run will end Saturday evening, Dec. 15, with the 978th performance of the popular Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein musical given by the Theater Guild's National Company. The organization is scheduled to chalk up its 1000th time at the Hanna Theater in Cleveland on Friday evening, Jan. 4, 1946.

Of course there are no more seats available for the remainder of the Boston engagement. They were exhausted over three weeks ago.

Boris Karloff in Dandy Thriller at Trans-Lux

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Boris Karloff, Hollywood's arch terrifier, with Marc Cramer and Ellen Drew, scare the daylights out of the audience in the latest RKO shocker, "Isle of the Dead," which opened yesterday at the Trans-Lux.

This is guaranteed to give the shakes to the most blase. It has all the ingredients . . . a madman, a native crone who warns of vampires, terrifying jungle noises, plague, sudden death, corpses coming to life and clawing their way out of the coffin, plus a few murders and the inevitable romance.

It's a dandy.

Karloff portrays a Greek general, not of the recent war, who rows to a tiny island to the grave of his wife, accompanied by Marc Cramer, an American newspaperman. The island, a treasure trove of antiquities, has been ransacked by vandals, and the general finds his wife's grave uprooted and the coffin gone.

Maurice Evans' GI Hamlet Captivates Hub Audience

By PEGGY DOYLE

Maurice Evans, who gave us for the first time an unadulterated, uncut "Hamlet," brings Hamlet back alive again in the version that discovered Shapespeare to GI audiences as a master of melodrama.

Local civilians and visiting firemen attending last night's premiere of Michael Todd's (his second here this week) presentation of the Hamlet with which Maj. Evans and his soldier-cast wowed the GIs, gave vent to repeated and rafter-shaking outbursts of applause.

But someone who was there made it clear that even these unusually enthusiastic evidences of approval were no match for the tremendous, heart-stopping, uninhibited ovations by the soldier-audiences.

In the course of his 34 months of duty in the Pacific, Evans toured "Hamlet" for seven weeks. One of the most successful performances was played before battle-weary men in one of those forward areas without benefit of greasepaint, costumes or scenery.

The Atlantic Coast production, on the other fist, has everything . . . well, nearly everything except the grave-digger scene. Mr. Todd, that Broadway Midas who plans to bring five more shows to his favorite opening-town during the season, has given it a generous production befitting its princely traditions.

But the production's physical properties are no richer than the extraordinary, living human Hamlet that Evans has resuscitated with the help of GIs whose schoolday-hangover of a Somber Dane had heretofore made them allergic to Shakespeare.

There have been peevish Hamlets, bovine Hamlets, madhatter Hamlets, Hamlets of every color including lavender, Hamlets, all of them, to put GIs to sleep.

This is to report that the Hamlet we saw and heard last night bears not the vaguest resemblance to any of these pale carbon copies of the most tragic figure in English literature.

Evans plays Hamlet with magnificence and fury. He is Shakespeare's Hamlet, poet, philosopher, tender lover, devoted son. He is warm, generous, tragically self-critical, impulsive in judgment, the sweet prince of Horatio's last farewell. His noble heart is wrecked by the necessity to commit the murderous, unnatural acts he does.

The rest of the cast comport themselves in a manner worthy of the majestic company they keep. The Claudius, King of Denmark, is brilliantly conceived by Thomas Gomez, of stage and screen. He is so evil and tired and affrighted as he prays to be shrived of his kingly brother's murder.

Lili Darvas, as his queen, who wed him so soon after her noble husband's sudden death, brings grace, dignity and graciousness to the role. Walter Coy's Horatio, Emmett Rogers' Laertes and Thomas Chalmers' Polonius are excellent. Frances Reid's Ophelia has a wistful loveliness.

Irene Sharaff's costumes and Frederick Stover's scenery handsomely upholster the Evans-Todd production, which is a vigorous and rewarding reaffirmation of the greatest dramatist's immortality.

Pyle Home Deeded To Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 29 (AP)—The late Ernie Pyle's little white house was deeded to the city for a memorial by Mrs. Pyle shortly before her death.

Mayor Tingley said the gift has not yet been accepted because of a provision requiring the city to purchase land west of the house for $12,000 and hold it as a park. He said the Pyle heirs would be invited to offer the home without the stipulation.

Kamikaze Cars

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (AP)—The National Safety Council blames a doubled traffic death toll on drivers who are "using their war worn cars as if they were on a Kamikaze mission."

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29 (AP)—Mrs. Elva Haddow found her dog at the humane shelter when she returned from a trip. Neighbors had complained the animal was starving, but that isn't Mrs. Haddow's story.

She paid a small boy to feed the dog. The boy had a pet duck and the duck, with a fine disdain for the dog's rights, ate the food placed out for the dog.

D-Day at Philadelphia: Prelude to Army-Navy

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE LOCUS IS PHILADELPHIA'S Sesquicentennial Stadium. The scene is the Army varsity locker room. The time is about 1:30 p. m. Saturday when the last Army player stuffs the ends of his white shirttail under his kidney pads and laces his felt corsets snugly beneath his ribs.

Austen Lake

The last man will give himself a final wriggle into his armor, ease the elastics of his shoulder guards under his armpits and stretch the sweat-stiff canvas cups on his knees. Cadet managers will hover around to valet the athletes in their final needs and an ominous air of tension will settle over the gathering as Coach "Red" Blaik begins to prowl in the center of the benches where the varsity sits like bar-bottle rows of champagne, their helmets like corks covered with goal tinsel.

Red's valedictory will begin calmly, like the repentant rumblings of a sinner confessing himself, "We've come through a lot together . . ." There will be the musty odors of dried perspiration, sweet rubbing oils and acrid leather. The slanting rays of a late November sun will come through screened windows, high in the stadium walls " . . .Some of you are playing your last game for Army today . . ."

A NERVOUS SHIVER PASSES over the group. Brides, before the opening organ peal and the last long stroll down the church aisle, must feel like this! Or a combat infantryman waiting for his top sergeant to blow the signal for the assault charge on his whistle. "Hit 'em with everything. You have a whole winter to rest and remember . . ."

Outside the belated clatter of stragglers' footsteps hurrying over concrete runways. Crowd noises come thinly through the locker room doors. Blurts of band music, the hollow moan of the wind, the excited yammer of the cadet cheering sections . . . Hug that ball. No fumbles . . ."

A warm, drowsy feeling will succeed the early tingle, a sense of suspended animation. Glove fighters feel this way in the moment before being called to the ring. Time is not! Space is not! And nature lulls taut nerves while veins seem filled with warm molasses. ". . . bump those Navy tackles. Keep bumping 'em . . ." The drip of a leaky shower tap, like a tick of eternity's clock, small details that will come back in later years with photographic clarity.

The blue cartons of surgical cotton in trainer Rollie Bevan's satchel, the unfilled lily cups in the water tray, the red rubber sponges in the pails, the shine of fresh grease on the players' boots, the ring of prayerful faces like penitents receiving last absolution. A sudden tightness of breath.

"Now go get 'em" and the final spasmodic scraping of cleats on the cement floor and the surge for the green door and down the incline toward the field, with each cleat-clatter echoing "get 'em, go get 'em."

Now the sudden shock of sunlight and cold air at the end of the tunnel. The early Christians must have felt thus while going to the lions. The vast oval horseshoe of seething faces, waving and screaming under the ragdoll exhortations of white-sweatered yell leaders, "Ahhhh-may . . . Ahhhh-may . . . ruh-ruh-ruh."

Yonder, spilling simultaneously through the opposite portal comes Navy, the blue-and-yellow of its jerseys irritating. The enemy! They say every Annapolis man has no back teeth from grinding them down through the years saying "Nay-vee!" with that soul-felt inflection. Momentarily the two cadet teams crane necks for mutual appraisal, feeling the same morbid curiosity and twinges of antipathy that U. S. soldiers felt when seeing their first field-gray line of kraut skirmishers on Normandy's beachheads. (Get 'em . . . go get 'em.

"Mr. Green, Meet Mr. Duden"

BLAIK LINKS ARMS PATERNALLY with his captain, John Green, peering aloft speculatively to get wind directions from the flags flying on the stadium rim and saying, "If you win the toss . . ." The serried ranks of the West Point Corps, a solid block of gray, begin singing the West Point battle hymn, "Th' Ah-mee team's th' pride 'n dream . . . "

That tall, dark haired, hulking youth in blue who is shaking hands with Adm. "Bull" Halsey on the edge of the pitch is "Big Dick" Duden, "The one-man task force" the newspaper's call him, "Doin' Dick Duden," the 203-pound end. And the blocky little man in the prison stripe shirt is the referee.

"Mr. Green, meet Mr. Duden," and the elaborate parlor courtesies of introduction and handshaking while a vacuum of taut silence falls over the vast dimple where 101,000 people watch. The captains twitch quick grins and duck their heads while the referee harangues them about usual pre-game formulae concerning his pious trust for a wholesome contest.

The hush grows earaching, leaving only the distant chatter of press typewriters and telegrapher's "bugs" in the press pack from where 800 pairs of eyes peer down to flash news of the coin-flip to a waiting nation and to begin dictating or typing the opening lines for the early supper editions. A dozen radiorators are spouting atmospheric nothings into their nickled nozzles.

"Your choice, Mr. Green," states the referee, cocking his thumb under a silver dollar and spinning it in a bright arc. "Heads" breathes Green, bending automatically to see the coin's uppermost face.

The referee places his hand on the lucky winner's shoulder, holding it there as a signal to the press steward, who growls the announcement through the electric horns. "We'll receive" and "We'll defend that goal," selections rejected from sideline rehearsals. Hasty handshakes. Perfunctory good lucks and a scamper in opposite directions.

A deep throated, expectant rumble comes from the crowd as Blue and White break from their sideline huddles and spread fanwise over the turf, shaking fists for mutual encouragement, yipping fraternally. Then a thin burble of silvery sound and that big cataclysmic moment. Gimme that ball!

5 Trainers Suspended For Stimulating Horses

By DAVE WILSON

PIMLICO, Maryland, Nov. 29—A bombshell hit Maryland racing today with the announcement by the stewards at the Pimlico race track that five of the leading trainers in the country have been suspended for stimulating horses.

The racing stables under the direction of these men have also been banned. These stables will not be permitted to race again until new trainers, who meet with the approval of the Maryland racing commission, are secured.

The ruling of the stewards, with the names of the trainers and the owners they represented, is as follows:

"In accordance with rule 146 section D after a positive analysis showing a stimulent, the following trainers and all horses in their care are suspended until a formal hearing is held before the Maryland racing commission at a near date.

"Owner and Trainer V. S. McClintock (Pilate's Dream).

"Horses owned by S. W. Labrot, Jr., trainer C. Sutphin (Shako).

"By order of the stewards."

The owners of the horses in question are among the most important and powerful figures in racing. W. L. Brann, owner of New Challenge, which was trained by E. A. Christmas, also owns Challedon, one of the greatest thoroughbreds in the history of the turf.

S. W. Labrot, Jr., owner of Shako, trained by C. Sutphin, is one of the most prominent owners in Maryland. The owners of the other horses mentioned in the ruling of the stewards are also important in racing.

R. F. Curran, trainer of One Only, owned by E. D. Talbert, at one time trained for the late Walter O'Hara. Curran later made the headlines during a Garden State meeting. One morning while entering a parking lot to get his car he was shot. Curran said he was unable to identify who shot him and that he did not know of anyone who had any grievance against him.

The action of the Pimlico stewards followed the recent rulings against Joe Bauer, trainer of the Norwalk Stable and the suspension of that stable, and against Jimmy McGee, trainer of Max Wexler's stable.

The Wexler horses, which include British Buddy, were permitted to run again when a new trainer was secured. The Maryland Racing Commission is still investigating the ownership of the Norwalk Stable.

The commission stated that British Buddy was stimulated with caffeine, while it charged that Armistice Day, owned by the Norwalk Stable, was given benzadrine.

In New York, the famous Maine Chance Stable ran into difficulties and Trainer Tom Smith was suspended. It was charged that one of the Maine Chance horses was stimulated with ephedrine.

Maryland's meeting at Pimlico will close tomorrow, while Gulfstream in Florida opens on Saturday.

Under working arrangements between the two commissions, Florida accepts all rulings of the Maryland Racing Commission.

It is likely that as soon as new trainers are secured the racing stables mentioned in today's ruling will be permitted to make entries again.

TWO VETS RETURN

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (INS)—The return of two additional war veterans, Thurman Tucker and Taft Wright, today swelled the Chicago White Sox roster to the limit. Tucker was discharged recently from the Navy and Wright from the Army.

Cronin Explodes York Trade Myth

By HERB FINNEGAN

Harvard and Yale only two days away yet the topic of the day was baseball. There was the Boston Chapter of Baseball Writers re-electing Joe Cashman chairman and formulating plans for their first dinner since '42; there was Eddie Pellagrini visiting the Fenway offices asking if it were true he had been traded to Detroit; there were Charlie Wagner and his bride still in town, and Bill Barrett, who started Dave Ferriss on his pro career, extolling the prowess of Sox' catcher Eddie McGah.

Joe Cronin

Let's take 'em in order:

1—The baseball writers held their last dinner in Feb. of '42 with Joe DiMaggio predicting that Tommy Holmes would be a great hitter for the Braves. (He wasn't foolin'.) Now with both writers and players returning from the far shores, the time is ripe for a renewal of this annual baseball spree. Time and place will be announced later.

2—Pellagrini, Dorchester boy who made good in the Sox chain but never did appear at Fenway Park, is back in civies after four years in the Navy. "Just heard I had a fight with Joe Cronin and was being traded to Detroit," said the young shortstop, who starred for Mickey Cochrane at Great Lakes in '43. "I haven't seen Cronin for four years. What's the story?"

He was assured it was the figment of somebody's imagination. Said Eddie Doherty: "Cronin said he'd never trade a good young ballplayer for one who has seen his best days (York), so you have nothing to worry about Pelly."

PELLY UNDERWEIGHT

After more than a year in the Pacific, Pelly is somewhat underweight, as is Charlie Wagner, but expects to be his robust self by the time the club flits south (Washington's Birthday).

3—Sporting News carried a story that Eddie McGah was selected over Rollie Hemsley and Herman Franks as the all-star catcher on the 14th Naval District nine, Oahu, T. H. Other selections were Fred Hutchinson, Hugh Casey, Lou Tost, pitchers; Wimpy Quinn, Cubs, first base; Bill Herman, second base; Johnny Pesky, shortstop; Bob Lemon, Cleveland, third base; Stan Musial, left field; Charlie Gilbert, center field, Mizell Platt, Cubs, right field; Dick West, Reds, and Cookie Lavagetto, utility; Schoolboy Rowe, Mgr.

Ted Williams and Bob Kennedy (White Sox) played only four games and were ineligible for the team.

McGah (.385) was runner-up in league hitting to Billy Herman (.408) and was runner-up with Lemon in home runs (14) to Whitey Platt (16).

"He can't miss," exulted Ted Williams after watching McGah hit. "He's got it."

McGah is a California lad who joined the Sox chain out of high school. Bill Barrett started him off at Plattsburg, N. Y., in '39. He had only two seasons of pro ball (Oneonta in the Can-Am League, Scranton in the Eastern League) before joining the Navy.

"Must be about 24 now," Barrett reflected. "He's a big kid, fast and with tremendous power. Bats right-handed and will hit a ball to left or right center as long as any of them with the exception of Williams."

If the youngster comes through as expected, it means hail and farewell to catchers Pytlak, Bremer and Richards because classy Hal Wagner already has been discharged from service and is waiting for the bell.

Pesky hit only .300 in the Hawaiian League but fielded so superbly he was unanimous choice, as were Herman and Musial . . . Tex Hughson is on his way home from the Pacific, Joe Dobson on his way over . . . Dom DiMaggio is still there.

Crosby Would Buy Red Sox

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (INS)—Bing Crosby, crooner, movie actor, amateur tournament golfer and turfman, still has visions of being the owner of a major league baseball club, he told International News Service today.

In New York on business, Crosby said he planned to shop around for a club, "with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Red Sox as possibilities."

He said he also may dispose of his California race track, although this has nothing to do with his baseball plans.

He refused to comment on whether baseball Commr. A. B. Chandler had given him the go-ahead on his plans for entering baseball but friends revealed that the commissioner had indicated Crosby's race track holdings would be no bar to his owning a club.

The late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, whom Chandler succeeded as commissioner, stopped a deal through which Crosby would have acquired the Boston Braves, Landis insisting that baseball and racing did not mix.

"No I have not made any move at all toward obtaining a club," Crosby said, "but I have three or four in mind that are supposed to be for sale and I plan to see what can be done while I am in the East."

Lighting System Started at Tepee

Work was in progress today on the erection of eight steel towers for night baseball at Braves Field, home of the National League Baseball Club.

Contractor Joseph Maney, one of the Braves owners, is in charge of construction and is awaiting the arrival of material to assure the Hub of big league baseball under lights, for the first time in its history.

Former Marine Wins Wrestling Windup

John Mucciaccaro, a Marine hero, won his local mat debut at the Boston Arena last night by pinning Jim Wallace at 2:21. In the other half of the twin-windup, Dr. Len Hall downed Ivan Rasputin at 36:21.

Sal Balbo took the opener by beating Tom King at 22:40. Tom Casey and Chuck Montana went 30 minutes even.

Blaik Fights to Prevent Army Over-Confidence

By JACK CONWAY

COL. EARL BLAIK is trying to fight over confidence as his great Army football team prepares to leave for Philadelphia for its game with Navy at the Municipal Stadium on Saturday before 102,000 persons. This is one of the reasons Blaik placed such emphasis on the illness of Arnold Tucker, brilliant quarterback, who had a temperature of 102 degrees when removed to the hospital at West Point suffering from a severe cold.

Tucker is the key of the Army backfield. He has been a vital factor in the success of Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis, All-America backs. Tucker runs his team from a "T" formation and he is responsible for much of the dash and precision with which Army runs off its plays. This writer saw Tucker at his best in Army's game against Notre Dame.

Doc Blanchard

It is expected that Tucker will be able to resume his position in the lineup when Navy faces Army on Saturday. He is likely to be weakened by his illness, but he will still be able to direct the plays as Army will try to prove it is at least a 28-point better football club than the Navy.

While I look for Army to win in the battle for the national college football championship, I do not think Navy is going to be a soft touch. Navy is loaded with star players. Failure to click as a team has been the reason Navy has not done as well this season as was expected.

Navy found itself in the Michigan game. It has improved since then. Comdr. Hagberg, one of the heroes of the submarine warfare in the Pacific, says he will place a team in the field that will be battling for every possible advantage until the final whistle sounds.

Football Fever High

THERE WILL BE 102,000 persons jammed into the Municipal Stadium in Philadelphia when the contest starts. There would be twice as many persons in attendance if it were possible to care for them. Eager football fans, according to news dispatches from Philadelphia, are paying $70 for a pair of tickets from speculators.

Philadelphia hotels and rooming houses will be filled to capacity. Thousands of persons who will attend the service football classic will commute between New York, Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia.

Jim Flood, manager of the Edison Hotel in New York, told me that many of the West Point followers have secured reservations at his hotel. They will take Saturday morning trains to Philadelphia, 90 miles away, and be back on Broadway in the early part of the evening. Other New York Hotels report similar conditions.

West Point rooters are usually given priorities in New York hotels which is in keeping with the spirit of major football games.

Saturday will be a gay night in New York, for in addition to the Army-Navy rooters there will be many parties of Harvard and Yale men. The late spurt of Dick Harlow's Harvard team has given additional interest to the Crimson's invasion of New Haven on Saturday. While Yale is expected to win, Harvard should give the Eli sturdy opposition. Harvard proved as it defeated Brown that it has some football promise.

Priest Reduces Weight

AL (RED) PRIEST of Cambridge, who battles Billy Furrone of Philadelphia in a 10-round bout at a Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena tomorrow night, is still taking off excess poundage. When Priest received his discharge from service, he weighed 171 pounds. Hard training has enabled him to reduce by 20 pounds. It is expected that Al will scale about 150 pounds for Furrone. He should have all of his strength and speed at this weight.

It is seldom that a local boxer has looked as impressive in the ring as Priest has in his three winning tussles here. In addition to displaying good boxing form and speed, Priest has displayed a devastating punch.

Furrone is a better fighter than Priest has met in his recent tussles here. Furrone, coming out of two hard bouts with Billy Arnold in Philadelphia, is prepared to punch it out with the Cambridge warrior. It should develop into a torrid session.

Bruins' Pickups

The Bruins have played to capacity crowds—13,900—in all five home games this season, thereby "grossing" better than $100,000, of which they donated $21,000 to the American-Record-Advertiser Disabled Veterans' Fund. That's nice business and should continue for Mr. Ross has a nice hockey club.

Edgar Laprade made a very favorable impression with the local fans. Although he is a rookie, just out of amateur hockey, Laprade is fast and exceptionally shifty. Right now, he's a trifle too anxious and doesn't finish some of his best plays.

Frankie Brimsek and Bobby Bauer watched the game from the press coop. They were a trifle worried during the first period but relaxed in the second stanza and really enjoyed the evening.

"Chuck" Raynor was in the nets for the New Yorkers and gave an excellent account of himself. Between the first and second periods, Dr. Thomas A. Kelley, the Bruins' physician, put one stitch over Raynor's left eye.

Eddie Gabriel, the well known yachtsman, who has had season tickets to all games since the Bruins played at the Arena, was back in his regular seats to the right of the press box last night. Although he retained his season tickets during the war years, Gabriel didn't attend many games but he plans to take most of them in this winter.

Paul Bibeault is still "hot". But for the fact that Mac Colville's shot caroomed off Pat Egan's skate, Mons. Pual would have had another shutout last night.

Bobby Bauer skated yesterday noon and then took a heat treatment for his ailing shoulder. It will be some time before the little right winger is ready for service, for the little action he saw in the Toronto game set him back.

One of the most progressive steps made by Pres. Mervyn "Red" Dutton is the next system of scoring. On the 228 goals scored in the N. H. L. this season, the official scorers have awarded but 229 assists. At this stage of the 1944-45 campaign, there were almost twice as many assists as goals.

Lt. Jerry Cosby, U. S. Army, Tommy Brennan and Alan Stanley were among the visitors in the Bruins dressing room yesterday afternoon. Charlie "Broadway" Wagner dropped in before the game to consult with "Senator" Win Green of Massachusetts.

Bruins Display New Power

By BILL GRIMES

While the Bruins were setting up the ir fourth straight victory, a 5 to 1 decision over Rangers, before a gathering of 13,900 pa rtisan fans last night at the Garden, Bill Shill, Don Gallinger and "Beppo" Guidolin displac ed Bill Cowley, Terry Reardon and Herbie Cain as the leading point getters among Manager Art Ross' forward line combinations.

The Shill-Gallinger-Guidolin trio was trailing the Cowley line by seven ponts at game time. But Shill came through with the Hat Trick at the expense of "Chuck" Raynor, "Gally" scored the fourth Boston goal and along with "Beppo" was credited with two assists, giving the youngsters a total of eight points for the evening.

For the third time this season, the Cowley line didn't figure in a goal. Bill, Terry and Herbie have carried more than their share of the load in most games but they were stopped during the 1-1 tie in Toronto by Baz Bastien and the following night in Detroit, young Harry Lumley stopped all the Rossmen, while his teammates ran in seven goals on Paul Bibeault.

During the ten games the Rossmen have played, Shill has scored seven goals, Gallinger four and Guidolin three and they have been credited with 15 assists. Cowley has matched Shill in number of goals and Reardon and Cain have stood off Gallinger and Guidolin respectively, but the veterans have had one less assist, so are now one point shy of the up and coming younger combination.

The Flyers are in third place with seven goals, six by Woody Dumart and the odd one by Jack McGill and have eight assists for a total of 15 points. However, Manager Art Ross is confident that Schmidt, Dumart and either Bauer or McGill will begin to roll in the near future and close right in on the other two lines.

As was the case Sunday against the Maple Leafs, the Bruins got off to a slow start last night. The Rangers, who, incidentally, are by no means as weak as reports of their conquests would indicate, checked the Rossmen successfully during the opening stanza, thereby stopping the local sextet from setting up any scoring plays.

Shill was the outstanding offensive star. The slim right winger played alert hockey all night. He scored twice in the big second period and again in the final chapter.

Brine Outfits Grid All-Stars

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Again this year, the James W. Brine Sporting Goods Co., recognizing the American All-Scholastic football team as the official selection, will present jackets in traditional red, white and blue combination to the 11 members of the team.

The club, as picked by the Board of Coaches, will be presented in next Monday's Boston Evening American.

It's been the custom in the past to run a banquet for the boys at which time they'll be presented their jackets. As it will take time to make up the presents as well as the Official emblem, this get-together will be held up temporarily. But members of the team will be informed at the earliest date.

For the past five years and regardless of the shortage of goods, the Brine Sporting Goods company on Summer st. has offered these prizes. This fall, through the efforts of Louis C. Brine and District Manager Frank Holland, the jackets will be hurried along so that they should be ready shortly after the Christmas vacations.

Meanwhile, schoolboy football followers will have to wait until complete details of the team have been straightened out before seeing this Official team.

Coaches who picked this team include: Bill Ohrenberger, Boston school dept.; Ed "Skip" Sherlock, Hyde Park; Harry Downes, Brookline; Dennie Gildea, Everett; George Kenneally, Revere; Bill Broderick, Salem; Dave Gavin, Melrose; Henry R. Toczylowski, Arlington; Glenn O'Brien, Salem; Mark Devlin, Lawrence; and Bill Cronin, Hingham.

They've done a complete job in covering practically all schools within a 30-mile radius of Boston. Cronin has covered the South Shore; Kenneally, O'Brien and Broderick has worked on the "hotbed" that represents the North Shore; Ohrenberger and Sherlock rarely miss a Boston school game and in between, the others spot all the suburban elevens.

The Board spent more than five hours in heated consultation this week before reaching their final decision. In polling for the final choices, there were more than 100 boys on the list after original nominees had been eliminated for honor roll status.

Watch for this official All Scholastic football team in next Monday's Boston Evening American.

Champ Shaughnessy Plugs Skeet Game

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

After spending three-and-a-half years in the Army Air Force, where he taught about 10,000 servicemen the art of gunnery, Staff Sgt. Dick Shaughnessy, of Dedham, has just been promoted to "Mister" . . .

As everyone should know, the youthful sharpshooter is National .410 gauge Champion, as well as National High-Over-All Champ, titles which he defended successfully while in uniform.

It was a pleasure to chat with Dick again, after four years, as he related his experiences in the AAF . . . "After being inducted, I went to Gunnery School at Harlingen, Texas," he said, "later teaching the technique at several fields and bases. In the initial courses, cadets are taught with a gun camera, instead of using bullets. This instrument trains them for the actual handling of the caliber .50 Browning machine gun."

Dick Shaughnessy

"Deadeye" Dick also did quite a bit of flying himself, as an instructor in the gunnery classes, and has 1000 hours to his credit. Dummy planes were utilized on these flights, towed behind others, thus making excellent targets.

"The sport of skeet shooting really contributed to victory," he added. "The men were taken out to regular skeet fields, where they were shown how to sight their .12 gauge shotguns on moving objects. This style is called 'leading on the target.' Strangely enough, fellows who had never handled a rifle before developed into the best marksmen, for they didn't have any bad habits acquired from taking pot shots at birds and rabbits!"

It is Dick's conviction that skeet has a splendid future in Massachusetts . . . Numerous sportsmen's clubs plan to revive their shoots, and next spring will see many of these contests, with hundreds of guns blazing away at the clay pigeons.

This expert has several other outdoor hobbies, including skiing. "I hope to head for Laconia, N. H., as soon as the snow flies!" he grinned.

GUNSHOTS: Here's good news for local deer hunters, planning to set forth next week: Plenty of buckshot shells are now available at downtown sporting goods stores! They have just been released by the government and are on sale for the hunters, who have been searching frantically for this ammo . . . Scattered flights of ducks and geese continue to wing over sections of the Cape, and a few of the nimrods have been lucky enough to bag some of the tasty honkers.

St. Mary's, Oklahoma Sugar Bowl Foes

DALLAS, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Sugar Bowl folks must have been reading the national college football statistics.

Anyway, they snared the one-two offensive punch when they got Oklahoma A. and M. and St. Mary's (or their jam-1 classic.

Harlow to Take 37 Players Along

Dick Harlow will send a squad of 37 players to New Haven for the game with Yale, Saturday, at 1:30 p. m. The squad will leave the South Station at 10:00 tomorrow morning, arriving in New Haven at 1 o'clock. The squad will practice in the Yale Bowl at 2 o'clock for an hour and a half, and go by bus after the practice to Choate School, Wallingford, Ct., for supper, remaining there overnight.

Deer Season to Open Next Monday

Archibald Sloper, state commissioner of conservation, announced yesterday, that the deer season in Massachusetts will begin next Monday, and continue through Saturday, Dec. 8.

Each hunter is allowed one deer for the season, which may be shot between the hours of 6:30 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Sloper said men in the armed forces may receive free deer hunting permits from municipal clerks in their home communities. Others must have the regular $2 hunting licenses.

GRAVES MADE OFFER

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP)—Roy Graves, football coach at Tennessee University, has received an offer to coach the Allentown entry in the American Ass'n of Pro Football Clubs.

Ex-Pic Stars Back for Action

Two former Olympics hockey players, Tommy Brennan and Allan Stanley, have checked into Boston with hopes of rejoining the club in the near future.

Brennan, an American-born boy who now resides in Montreal, was only recently discharged from a hospital in Montreal after having three operations, two for a back injury he suffered when the Olympics played on the West Coast last spring, and one for the removal of his appendix. Tommy has been getting into condition by skating two hours daily at Montreal Forum, but doctors have forbidden him to play hockey for another three weeks.

Meanwhile the Olympics have today off as they await the visit of Baltimore Clippers to the Garden tomorrow and Saturday nights. This will be Baltimore's inaugural appearance here this season, and the Pics have yet to bow to the Clippers. Both games will have 8:30 p. m. starting times.

Her Baby Kidnaped—While youngsters of the neighborhood flock about, Mrs. Rose Carlan, nearly hysterical with grief over the kidnaping of her baby, answers questions of a reporter on the porch of her home in Arlington st., Chelsea, about 50 feet from where the child was stolen from his carriage. See below.

Seeks Clue—Boston Evening American Reporter Don MacPhail looks into the carriage from which little Ronnie Carlan was stolen. He seeks clue which might aid in the hunt for the abductor.

INP by Louis Teton
